

Central Asia Fiber Optic Distribution Box

Article Overview

Key suppliers of fiber optic distribution boxes in Central Asia include Yuyao Jera Line and Optictelecom, offering robust solutions for urban and rural network deployments.

Leading Companies and Their Offerings

Yuyao Jera Line is a global manufacturer providing comprehensive fiber optic infrastructure solutions across Central Asia, including Kazakhstan, Uzbekistan, Turkmenistan, and Kyrgyzstan. Their products include high-tensile fiber optic cables, weather-resistant distribution boxes, and durable suspension clamps designed to withstand extreme temperatures, arid conditions, and mountainous terrains, ensuring reliable connectivity for both urban and remote areas. Optictelecom, operating in Kazakhstan since 2003, partners with major local telecom providers such as Kazakhtelecom JSC and KazTransCom JSC. They supply and install fiber optic cables, accessories, couplings, and measurement instruments. Optictelecom also offers design, construction, and maintenance services for large-scale fiber optic cable lines (FOCL), capable of handling projects up to 3,000 km, and operates a laboratory for testing optical equipment. Unionfiber provides a wide range of fiber optic distribution boxes suitable for indoor and outdoor applications. Their products include 4-port to 64-port boxes, supporting SC, LC, and FC connectors, PLC splitters, and features like IP65 waterproofing, UV resistance, and dual-layer designs for efficient splicing and distribution management.
